

Learning Covenant Requirement

As a learner entering into this mentored training program, I recognize the importance of committing myself to the learning process and being accountable for my growth. As a Christian, I know that learning is a lifelong journey that requires discipline, commitment, and humility.

Therefore, I covenant with God and those involved in this program to:

- Dedicate myself to the learning process: I will commit to attending teaching and mentoring sessions, completing all assignments, and actively participating in discussions.
- Choose a mentor: I will prayerfully choose a mentor who is committed to helping me grow and learn.
- Honor my mentor: I will commit to building a respectful and meaningful relationship with my mentor. I will be open to their feedback, critiques, and suggestions and actively work on implementing them. I will respect their time, knowledge, and expertise and seek their guidance throughout the program.
- Be accountable: I will take full responsibility for my learning and growth. I will keep track of my progress, identify areas of strength and weakness, and work on improving myself.
- Engage with my Christian tradition: I will immerse myself in my Christian tradition and actively seek to deepen my understanding of God and His teachings.
- Be open-minded: I will approach this program with an open mind, willing to learn from others, even when their perspectives differ from my own.
- Practice self-reflection: I will regularly reflect on my experiences, challenges, and successes throughout this program. I will seek God's guidance and wisdom as I grow in my knowledge and understanding.
